

Applying for loans: What documentation do you need?

In order to decide to provide a loan, your bank needs a number of documents and information about you and your project. You should put these documents together ready for the first meeting. This will save time. Also, your bank will see that you are approaching your project in a professional manner. In many cases, this personal impression has a decisive impact on the award of the loan.

Click the boxes:

Do you have all the documents you need?

Necessary documents

Curriculum vitae with proof of qualifications

Details of previous professional career

Brief written presentation of your project

If available:
Contracts already concluded or draft contracts

Extracts from real estate register

Investment plan with viability calculations

Details of your investment costs and the proportion to be financed

Profitability outlook

Indication of size and term of desired loan

Comments from independent body
(e.g. chamber, auditor, tax adviser)

In case of planned take-over: Accounts of company to be taken over

Data about the market